- Do not leave the heater un-attended when using the screen. The screen is not to be used for overnight burning.
- When using the screen, your airtight wood-burning appliance will lose efficiency.
- If your appliance is equipped with a bypass, it must be in the open position when the screen is in use.
- In situations where a marginal chimney draft may exist or in homes that experience negative pressure, smoke may spill back into the room.
- The non-combustible hearth (floor protection) must comply with the minimum dimensions outlined in the installation manual supplied with the appliance.
- Wood must be positioned in a stable manner inside the appliance so that it cannot roll into the screen.
- When removing the screen, always set it on the non-combustible portion of the hearth, in a manner that will not allow it to fall on to a combustible area.
